

Logitech[®] Acquisition of LifeSize[®] Communications

Company Facts at a Glance

Logitech announced its acquisition of LifeSize on December 11, 2009.

LifeSize Communications

- Founder and CEO: Craig Malloy
- Founded in 2003
- Offices in Austin, TX and regionally throughout the Americas, EMEA and APAC
- ~300 employees around the world.
- 9,000 customers in more than 80 countries
- ~$90 million in revenue expected in 2009
- Customers in large enterprises, small-to-medium businesses (SMBs) and public healthcare, education and government organizations.
- Revenue distribution: 50% in Americas, 30% in EMEA, 20% in APAC
- 76 patents and pending patent applications
- #3 leader in worldwide room-based video conferencing market
- Global market potential for video communications in the enterprise is expected to reach approximately $4.6 billion in the next 5 years (Wainhouse Research)
- Manufacturing located in Malaysia

Logitech

- President and CEO: Gerald P. Quindlen
- Founded in 1981
- Swiss public company, traded on SIX Swiss Exchange (LOGN) and Nasdaq Global Select Market (LOGI)
- Management offices in Silicon Valley, Switzerland, China
- Development centers in Romanel-sur-Morges, Switzerland; Cork, Ireland; Hsinchu, Taiwan; Suzhou, China; Fremont, California; Vancouver, Washington; Mississauga, Ontario; Irvine, California; Draper, Utah
- ~8000 employees around the globe
- Products sold in more than 100 countries
- $2.2 billion in revenue in FY 2009
- Leadership:
 - Interface products for the PC: mice, keyboards, webcams, Vid™ video calling service, game controllers, speakers, headsets, digital video security systems
 - Harmony[®] remote controls
 - Squeezebox™ WiFi music players
 - Digital music speakers and earphones
 - Interface devices for console gaming
- Manufacturing located in China