

Lifesize Share Takes Meeting Room Productivity to the Next Level

Latest Lifesize Innovation Enables Teams to Wirelessly Present Content With Ease

Austin, Texas — May 30, 2018 — Lifesize®, a global innovator of video collaboration and meeting productivity solutions, is putting an end to meeting room cables. With Lifesize Share™, teams can seamlessly present content during meetings, all without the hassle of finding and connecting the right dongle.

“Lifesize Share makes it remarkably simple to present in meetings without losing precious minutes passing cords and trying to make connections work,” said Craig Malloy, CEO of Lifesize. “We’ve seen incredible excitement from customers and partners and a wave of demand.”

Offering a truly wireless solution that’s effortless to use, Lifesize Share allows any laptop, tablet or smartphone to painlessly connect, present content, queue files and change presenters. Additionally, Lifesize Share doubles as a separate, secure wireless access point for easy guest content sharing, eliminating unnecessary exposure to business networks.

To use, a presenter would simply visit the customized URL via their web browser and select the room. Lifesize Share takes care of the rest, automatically detecting the computer with ultrasonic sound waves and allowing the individual to present an entire screen, a specific application or file, or stream video and audio on the meeting room’s monitor.

Lifesize Share starts at $499, and is available now via Lifesize or the Lifesize Partner network.
